Administration

To the Seniors and Underclassmen:

One of the greatest rewards of being your principal is having the opportunity and being able, because of your efforts while in school, to recommend you for the job or school of your choice.

Only last week I received a telephone call from Washington, D. C. and one from Boston requesting information about two of our graduates. These employers, as well as admission officers, are interested in your ability, your willingness to use your talents (work, study or whatever you may wish to call it), how you get along with your classmates and teachers, and the regularity of your attendance. It is always a pleasure to be able to give a student a good rating. I urge all of you to do the best that you can while here at the Academy. There will always be an opening for the student who is prepared and willing to work.

Faculty

Teachers should be held in the highest honor. They are the allies of legislators; they have agency in the prevention of crime; they aid in regulating the atmosphere-- whose incessant action and pressure cause the life blood to circulate, and to return pure and healthful to the heart of the nation.

Guidance

The guidance program, developed within the last three years, has proven to be a tremendous asset to Hampden Academy. With a full-time guidance counselor, it is now possible to help each student become more aware of his aptitudes and abilities and formulate his vocational and educational plans.

Seniors

Wisdom is the ultimate aim of learning. Such learning is a long process, which involves a lifetime of thoughtful inquiry and wide experience. Book learning and good schooling help, but they are not enough to form this supreme virtue of mind and character.

Dr. Mortimer J. Adler

Treasurer: Donald Newell; President: Kent Hart; V. President: Vinal Smith; Secretary: Gayle Leavitt.

When we, the present seniors, entered Hampden Academy in the fall of 1961, we little realized how much we would come to appreciate the efforts of the faculty. Without their courageous struggles, we would probably be leaving in much the same state of ignorance as when we entered.

In spite of our busy study schedules, we found time for various class projects, which we undertook in order to raise money for the class treasury. These projects ranged from fudge sales to dances to bottle drives. They proved to be quite successful undertakings which were most beneficial to the treasury.

Following tradition, we seniors spent the third week of school busily initiating the new freshmen. The freshmen performed various vile tasks and ridiculous stunts throughout the week, and their torment was climaxed by a final performance in front of the student body. On Friday night, the freshmen, then properly initiated, were the guests of honor at the freshman reception, where they were officially welcomed to the Academy by the upper classmen and faculty members.

On April 20th, we set out for New York aboard two buses where we spent three days touring the United Nations, the World's Fair, and other places of interest.

We seniors wish to express our appreciation to the administration and faculty for their efforts in our behalf.

Sincerely,
Kent Hart

Student Council Officers

Mr. Winslow, Advisor; Joette Reynolds, Secretary; Kent Hart, President; Karen Cobb, Vice President.

Student Council

The Student Council is made up of two representatives from each class and is under the supervision of a faculty advisor. Its main functions are to see that all student activities are planned without conflicts and to promote better student-faculty relationship. For the last two years the student council has made the A.F.S. Student an honorary member of their organization.

American Field Service

"Walk together, talk together,
O ye peoples of the earth;
then and only then, shall ye have peace."

-From the Sanskrit

Caryl Minogue is Hampden Academy's A.F.S. Student for 1964-1965. She is from Auckland, New Zealand, which is about 12,000 miles from her American home. Caryl's American sister is Kathryn Lebrun. The purpose of the American Field Service is to help promote international understanding and to contribute to the building of a truly lasting world peace.

Dirigo Boys And Girls State

The main objective of Dirigo Boys' and Girls' State is to acquaint high school students with the functions of their state and local governments.

Each year two juniors are selected by the faculty to go to the University of Maine or Colby College, to live on campus for a week. During this time they learn how to become useful citizens of the State of Maine.

The curriculum began with active participation in town meetings; each member was a citizen of one of eight towns located in one of four counties. Following the town meetings candidates were allowed to run in the primaries for any of the town or state positions. After the primaries the final election of officers was held. The Senate and House of Representatives convened following the installation of officers. Throughout the week several prominent Maine officials lectured the students. Graduation from Boys' and Girls' State marked the climax of a rewarding and profitable week.

National Honor Society

Character, Scholarship, Leadership and Service are the qualifications for membership in the National Honor Society. The Hampden Academy Chapter, organized in 1931, is one of 6000 chapters in the United States whose purpose is to recognize outstanding students for their past achievements and promise of future excellence. Five per cent of the Juniors and fifteen per cent of the Seniors are chosen by the faculty each year and are initiated into this honor society in the spring. Judson Smith, a member for the past two years, was chairman of the League Initiation for 1965.

D. A. R. Good Citizen

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is an organization of women, who can trace their ancestry to those who helped gain American independence. Their main objectives are to preserve historical sites and to educate for greater patriotism.

Each year a girl from the senior class is chosen by the seniors in conjunction with the faculty on the basis of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. Judith Dawn Morang was elected as this year's D.A.R. Good Citizen and is entitled to lifetime membership in the organization.

Science Club

The Science Club was formed to stimulate interest in the general field of science. The main project of the club is the annual Science Fair. The students are all encouraged to participate. Although there were not enough participants to demand a local fair, those below and several others will compete in the Regional Fair held at Hermon this year. In past years such programs have been carried out successfully at Hampden and have afforded much enjoyment and enlightenment not only for the visitors, but also, for the students involved.

The Chess team, a newly organized activity, has been very popular for the last two years. Although a small spectator sport, the interest is keen among participants. Advised by Mr. Bartlett, the team has had several interschool meets. The success of the season was only out weighed by the popularity of the sport.

One Act Plays

"The Boor"

"Andante" a drama, by Wesley Coutts, was directed by Richard Gross. The cast was made up of George Marvin, Judy Bacon, Michael Sites, Gary Bowden, and Cynthia Higgins.

Other students assisting in the program were: Carol Lane, Brenda Higgins, Deborah Stubbs, costumes; Prudence Day, Valerie Day and Gail Ruhlin, prompters; Richard Libby, stage manager and props;

"When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet"

Three one-act plays were presented at the Hampden Academy gymnasium. The plays were judged by Herbert Billet of Bangor. His selection for the best play of the evening was "The Boor" by Anton Chekov with a cast of three: Judson Smith, Meredith Hicks and Douglas Brann. This play was directed by Everett McCutcheon.

"When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet" by Charles George was directed by Mrs. Theodore Littlefield. The cast included Cathy Smith, Kim Ricker, Prescilla Martin, Jean McManus, Pamela Ogilvie and Rosa Cole.

"Andante"

Richard Higgins, Michael Macke, Robert Walton and Crawford Adams, stage crew; Mary McMannus, Jerry Cole, Carol Faulkingham and Sheila Wedge, publicity committee; Linda Dupray, Victoria Cunningham, Juanita Hathaway, Brenda Higgins, Kathy-Jo Craven, Gayle Leavitt and Terry Dexter; make-up committee.

Mrs. Louis Stearns, III, was director of make-up.

Senior Play

"Antigone," a two act drama by Jean Anouilh, adapted by Lewis Galantieri, dealt with the timeless struggle of the individual against the power of the state.

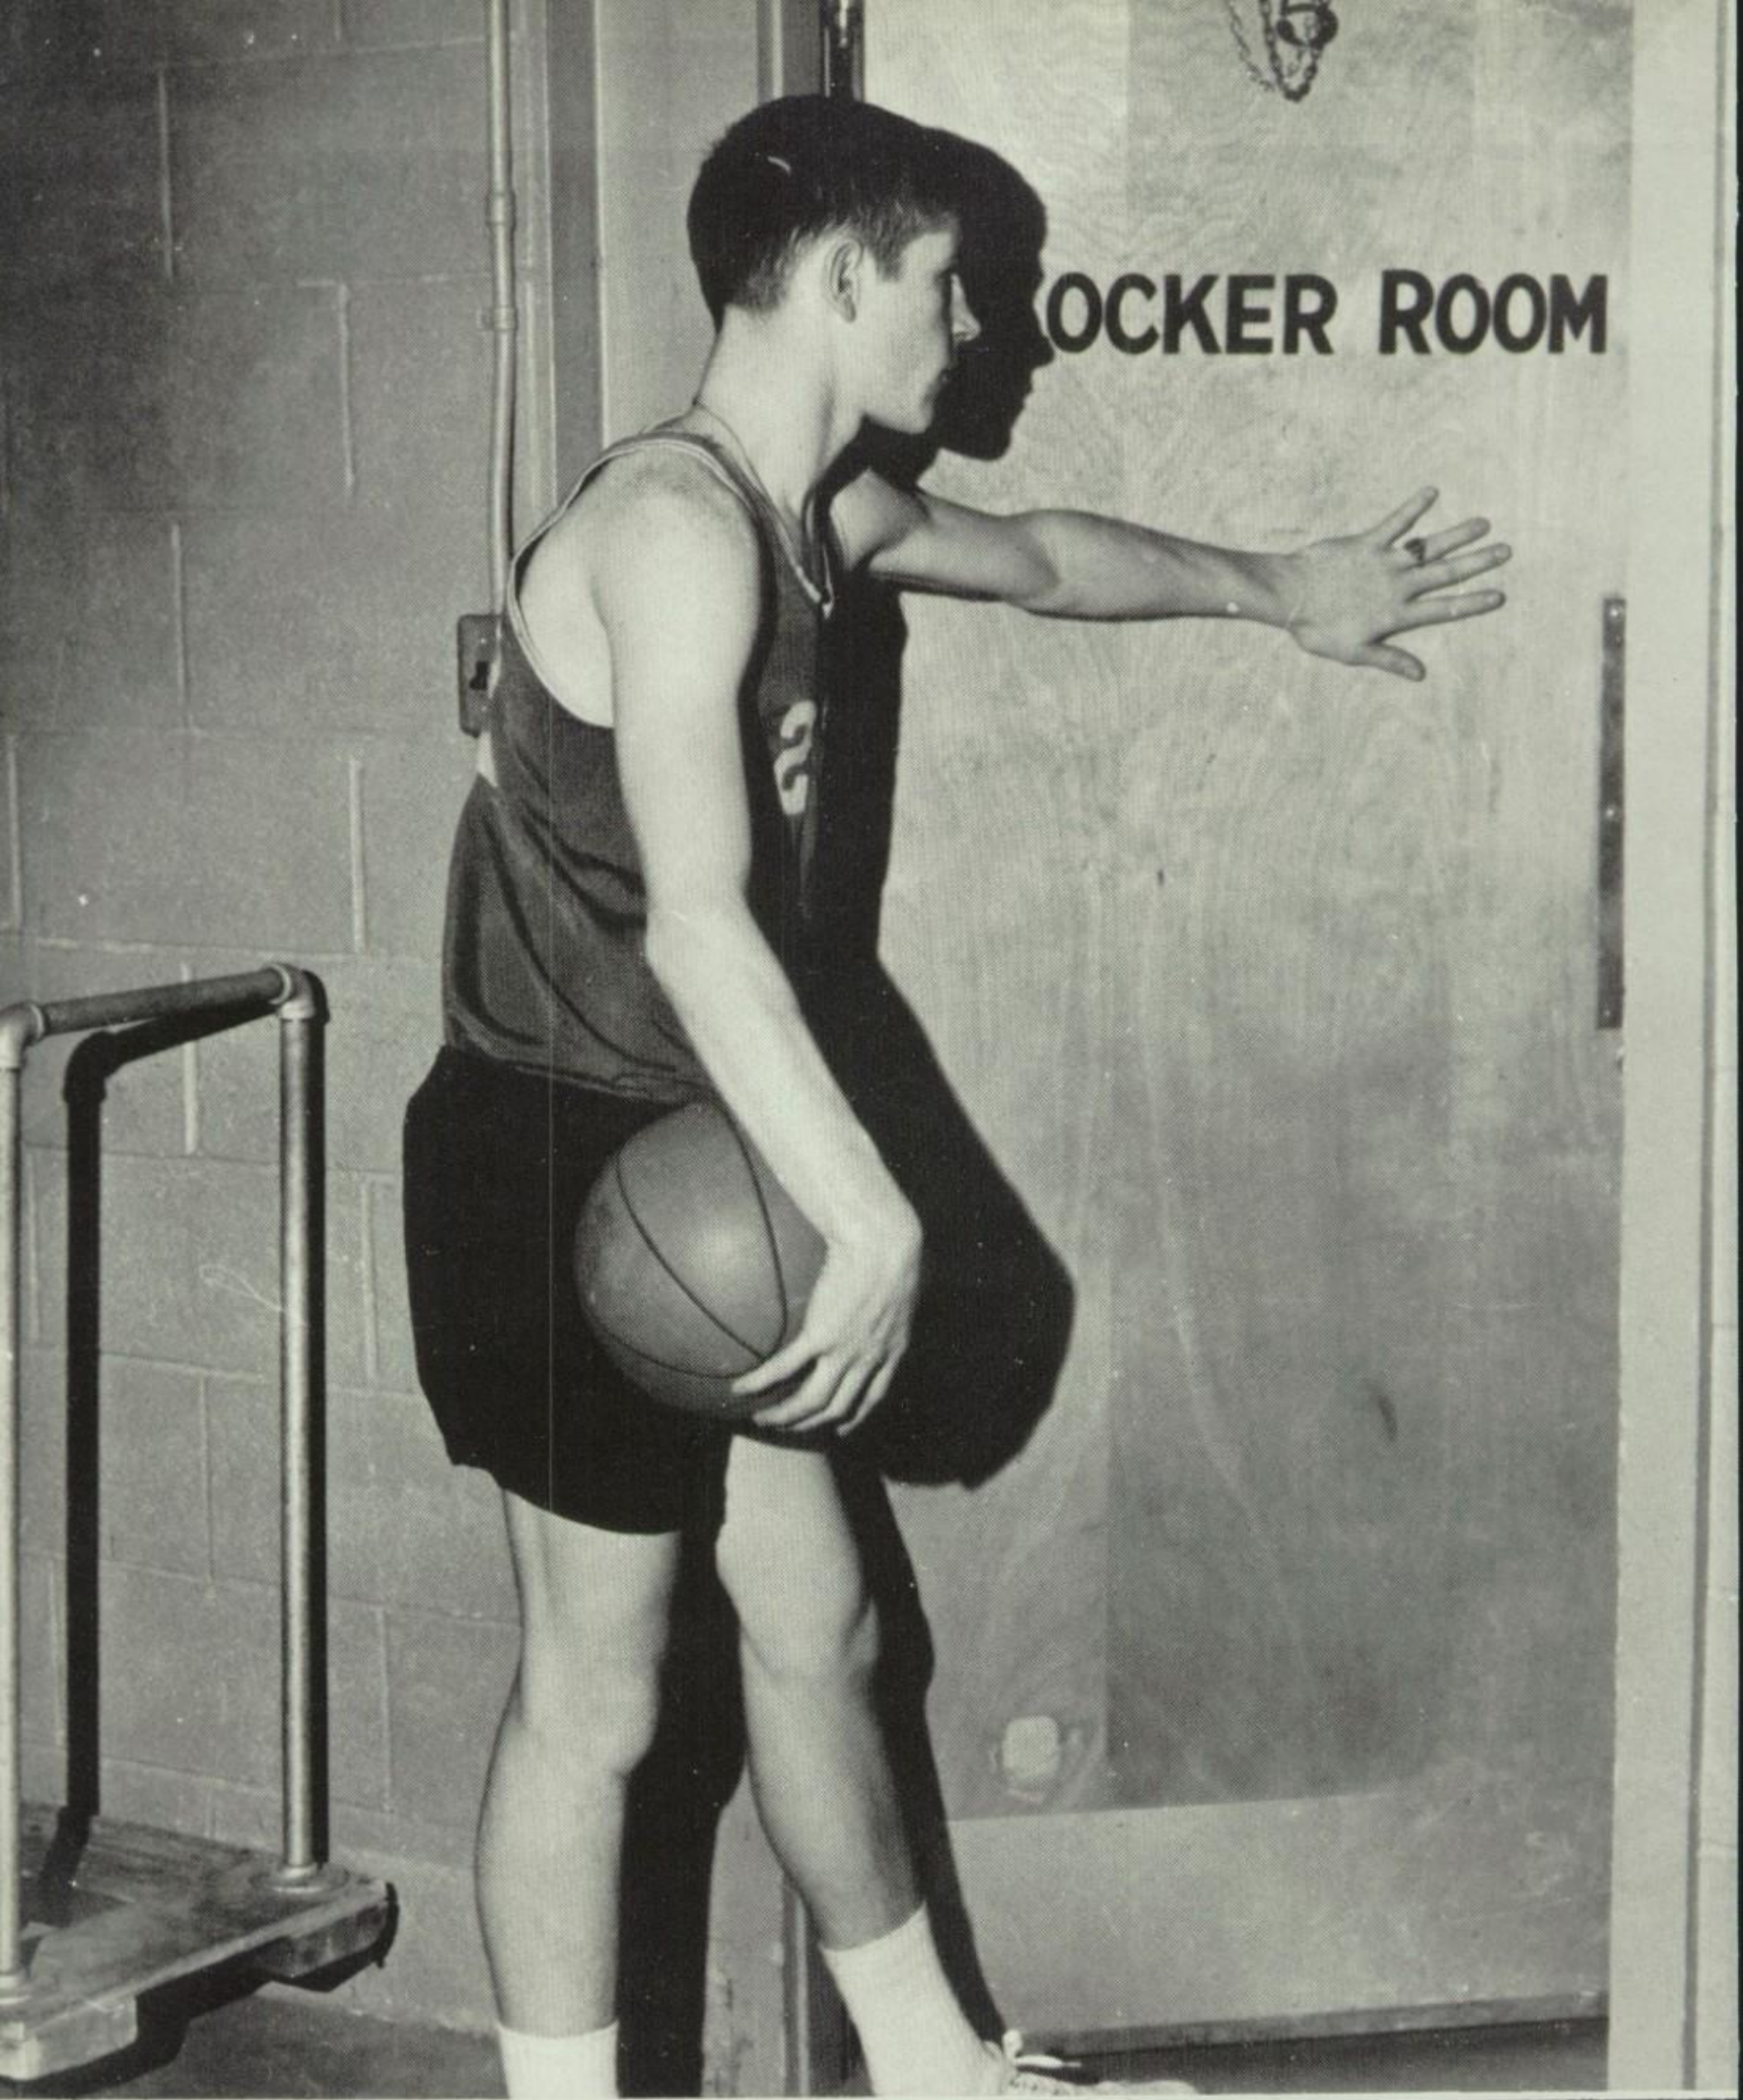

The production, which was an extremely difficult one for an amateur cast, was carried off with a great deal of finesse.

The efforts of the cast and production staff resulted in a production which was extremely well received by the audience.

The cross-country team had a fairly successful season recording four wins and two losses. In a four-way meet, they placed third; in the Central Maine League, they placed second out of six teams, and in the Regionals, fourth out of eight teams. The team lacked experience, but never spirit. Mike Morgan and Louie Washburn gave outstanding performances in the Central Maine League and Regional meet. Mike placed second in the Central Maine League, and Louie placed tenth in the Regionals.

Literary

Literature is a fragment of a fragment; of all that ever happened, or has been said--only a fraction has been written--and of this, little is outstanding.

NOTHINGNESS

Life is happiness, or sadness, or nothingness.

To have found life is happiness,
To lose it is sadness-
uncomprehension is nothingness.

Happiness flies,
Sadness is but a visitornothingness haunts night and day.

The roads of happiness lead to life,
The roads of sadness lead to deathnothingness has no road.

Hope is happiness,
Despair is sadness-
darkness is nothingness.

Happiness touches few Sadness many more-nothingness the empty souls.

Happiness seeks the future,
Sadness the past-nothingness seeks for a time that isn't there never was never will be.

ALONE

The walls are dark and cold.
What is this feeling that I have
A feeling that the world is mean
And I myself must stand alone.

I fight against fear--it scares me so,
Failure is a fear I hold,
For if I fail in work and play
Then my life has not a goal.

And love--What is love?
I care not to know,
For I have seen what love can do
And love is bad for me, I know.

I'll stand alone and die alone,
And no one will ever know
The feeling that I've always had,
The feeling that the world is bad.

Gayle Leavitt "65"

PEACE--HOW YOU CAN HELP KEEP IT

As a teenager you may think that there is nothing you can do to maintain world peace. If you do think this, you are wrong. How, then, you ask, do I suggest you help this cause? By working in creative ways, by making and building, by dreaming and doing, by anything that tells world you value life--that's how you can do your part. If you and everyone else does not show an interest in life, an interest in peace, what difference does it make if we are a world of wars or a world of wondrous peace? That's how peace begins--by your showing that it is necessary. It's a gift you will want to give your children. So, work and write and sing and study--in the process you'll help to make this earth a better place.

Judith Morang "65"

LOVE'S REFRAIN

I thought I heard my true love's voice,
The sound a soft refrain;
I turned, looked up, lis't once again,
Yet knew I searched in vain.

The tone was clear, so deep, so sweet,
My heart burst forth anew;
The song swelled strong, and filled my soul,
That song brought thoughts of you.

My love was mine and mine alone,
I basked in God's good grace;
Then Fate stepped in--led him from me,
And left a pit in place.

My life was he, my moon and sun,
What point to living now?
The world was dark, no light to see,
Yet, I heard singing--How?

I know now why I heard the song;
It said, "Take heart, don't quail".
Yes, God was kind and gave to me,
The lovely Nightingale.

THE YEARS RECORD

We griped a little, smiled a little
And sometimes we shed a tear,
But all in all we're proud to say
It's really been a great year.

Poor Freshman, they sure had a time,
The first few days of school,
But when it came to the honor roll
Oh! Boy, they didn't fool.

The Sophomores were not far behind
In anything more or less.
They studied hard in everything
And always tried their best.

The Juniors-Oh! That marvelous class
Prepared a Junior Prom,
A wonderful affair with plenty to eat
And one we shall never forget.

But at last it's Spring
And come what may,
When sophisticated Seniors
Go on their way.

Parting, they say, is such sweet sorrow
And still it brings a tear;
At last we all can happily say,
It's certainly been a great year.

Nancy Patterson "65"

"YESTERDAY AND TODAY"

"When I was your age..."
"Back in the good old days..."
Everything was so perfect.
Funny, the way they Forget deeds bad.
But, oh, how the good
Watches in wait
For our slightest mistake.
Suddenly, there we are Measured by some...
Some ancient yardstick.
But we never fit;
It's a losing battle.
We're longer and wider
And much deeper now.
We won't be fairly measured
Til the "good old folks"
Make a new yardstick.

Rick Libby "65"

LAMENT

It came and it went so suddenly.
Everything was bright and fresh.
The sun glowed with brilliance;
The nights were clear and
The sky, star-filled;
The moon hovered like a shiny silver coin
High over our heads.
The world was warm and
There was no cold anywhere.
But then-a change-
The atmosphere grew cold;
The sun lost its brilliance;
The moon faded into obscurity;
The stars no longer twinkled happily,
But cried in the rain.
Autumn came and love went away.

WE DON'T NEED ENGLISH CLASS . . . DO WE?

Many times I've wondered why we have to go into such detail in studying English grammar in school. It's true, we do speak it without difficulties. It seems to me that English in school has its pros and cons. No doubt, everything taken up in English class has a good purpose, but to understand it is something different. Let's see some examples:

We shall begin with punctuation! Everyone knows what a comma (,) is? Commas (,) and periods (.) are the most commonly used punctuation in the English language. (Knowledge of punctuation is essential in order to establish effective writing? I will not go into further detail about punctuation.

Another quiet common erra is speling. Peeple do not relise how often they make speling erras. I will do know moor than make menshun of speling, as it needs moor stress then I can put on it.

Parts of speech are stressed highly in English classes. We often have to write sentences, pointing out the various parts of speech in each. Can you imagine trying to study your physics out of a book written like this?: "The (article) next (adjective) step (noun) is (verb) to develop (infinitive) positive (adjective) films (noun) through (preposition) the (article) negatives (noun) onto (preposition) photographic (adjective) film (noun)." Enough for that.

People do not realize how important vowels and consonants are. I know, it has been quite a few years since we talked of these, but we use them every day. As an example, let's omit the vowels from the poem "The Hippopotamus", by Hilaire Belloc.

(1) -sh t th H pp p t m s w th b ll ts m d f pl t n m,
B c s f s l d n n s
h s h d s s r t fl tt n' m.

Now let's add the vowels and omit the consonants:

(2) I o e i o o a u
i u e a e o a I u ,
e au e i I u e ea e o e
i i e i u e o n e 'e .

Now let's try it leaving out both vowels and constants:

(3)

Upon observing the introductory sentence of poem no. 3, I do not feel inclined to speak of word meanings.

The Exciting Brook

Whee, Wheee, here I come;
It's the spring of the year,
And time for fun.
I rush over rock and dam
Underneath the bridge's span.
Excitement seems to fill the air,
Blue sky and green trees everywhere.
See the children along my banks,
Sailing boats and playing pranks.
The trout are leaping high with glee,
The ice is gone and they are free.
Happy days are here again.
Snow is gone with winter's end.
Come and share with me the thrill,
Of so many happy adventures still.

Janet Robinson "66"

Mike MacDonald "65"

Sunsets

When the day is nearly over,
And the sun is sinking low,
The sky becomes illuminated
With a sunset's radiant glow.

From the hill I watch the colors
As slowly they fade away;
The impressive rose and azure
Majestically end the day.

I have often watched the beauty
Of the sunsets from this hill;
And though, I am far away,
I'll always hold the memory still.

Thomas Doe "66"

Begone

We're through, begone!
Oh Hideous creation.
For twelve long years
We followed thee, in Search of . . . education.

We're through, begone!
Rid us of our damnation,
For twelve long years
We followed thee, for
This . . . graduation.

We're through, begone!
Wait not poor initiation.
For twelve long years
We followed thee, to Know no . . . limitation.

We're through, begone!
We owe no presentation.
For twelve long years
We followed thee, and
Risked . . . annihilation.

We're through, begone!
Hope not for expectation.
For twelve long years
We followed thee, to Say . . . begone.

Comment:

Shout no exclamation
Of this . . . rhythm.
It bears no representation
Of our . . . time.

A Place to Hide

A young man walking the lonely streets of once great cities,
Stopped for an instant by the side;
Caught up in his troubled anxieties
He ran, seeking a place to hide.

For this young heartbroken man
There was no longer the loving hand.
There had been no one to love him
Since the funeral and the final hymn.

So in sorrow and loneliness he walked,
And seldom was it that he talked,
For it was necessary that he find a place
Where he confide his sorrow in the portrait of her face.

Thus the youth, seeking his own world, walked,
Till he found a place,
Where he, his sorrow could confide,
To the portrait of her face.

James Libby '65

A Love, A Room; Life, Death; Paradox

I am a man of certain unrest.

Wait! I ponder the thought of being a man.

I question life -- my -- it's values and quests.

I live to love; I love to live.

Oh, the pain of unanswerable thoughts.

On my door is nailed a number -- eight.
Behind this door, life is at a minimum.
I wonder of this number, it's meaning?

My fate.

I need no name with that tattoo.

Hey, there goes . . . Oh, it's only you, eight.

I draw in this room behind the door.

My talent, nil, no need; my art pure reflection.

The outside, (a good life?) enters and says, "No more!"

I hurt, I cry, my thoughts envelop me.
Now I display concentrated effort; lock
that door!

I sleep in this room behind this door.

Sleep? A wonderful addition to life, my life.

Here thoughts build and climb to an unsurmountable roar.

Thoughts of life, thoughts of love, and one.
Sleep? My answer to outside's "No more".

I display ingratitude outside this room,
beyond the door.

Seems unreasonable, when outside shows me kindness and love?

(Love here is a duty to push, push until I'm sore.)

Blind! They push me in. Damn! Lock
that door.

I love in this room behind the door, yet
I love anywhere.

You think, the one who saved my life, love is enough?

Yes, oh yes, love is my all, for me nothing to spare.

I live to love, I love to live.

Oh, the pain of unanswerable thoughts.

Heber
a real nice guy that I always hang around. I will never forget how hard Cathy tried to get you, but you just wouldn't give in. good luck with the girls in Danforth and where ever you go. good luck in the future and may god bless.
